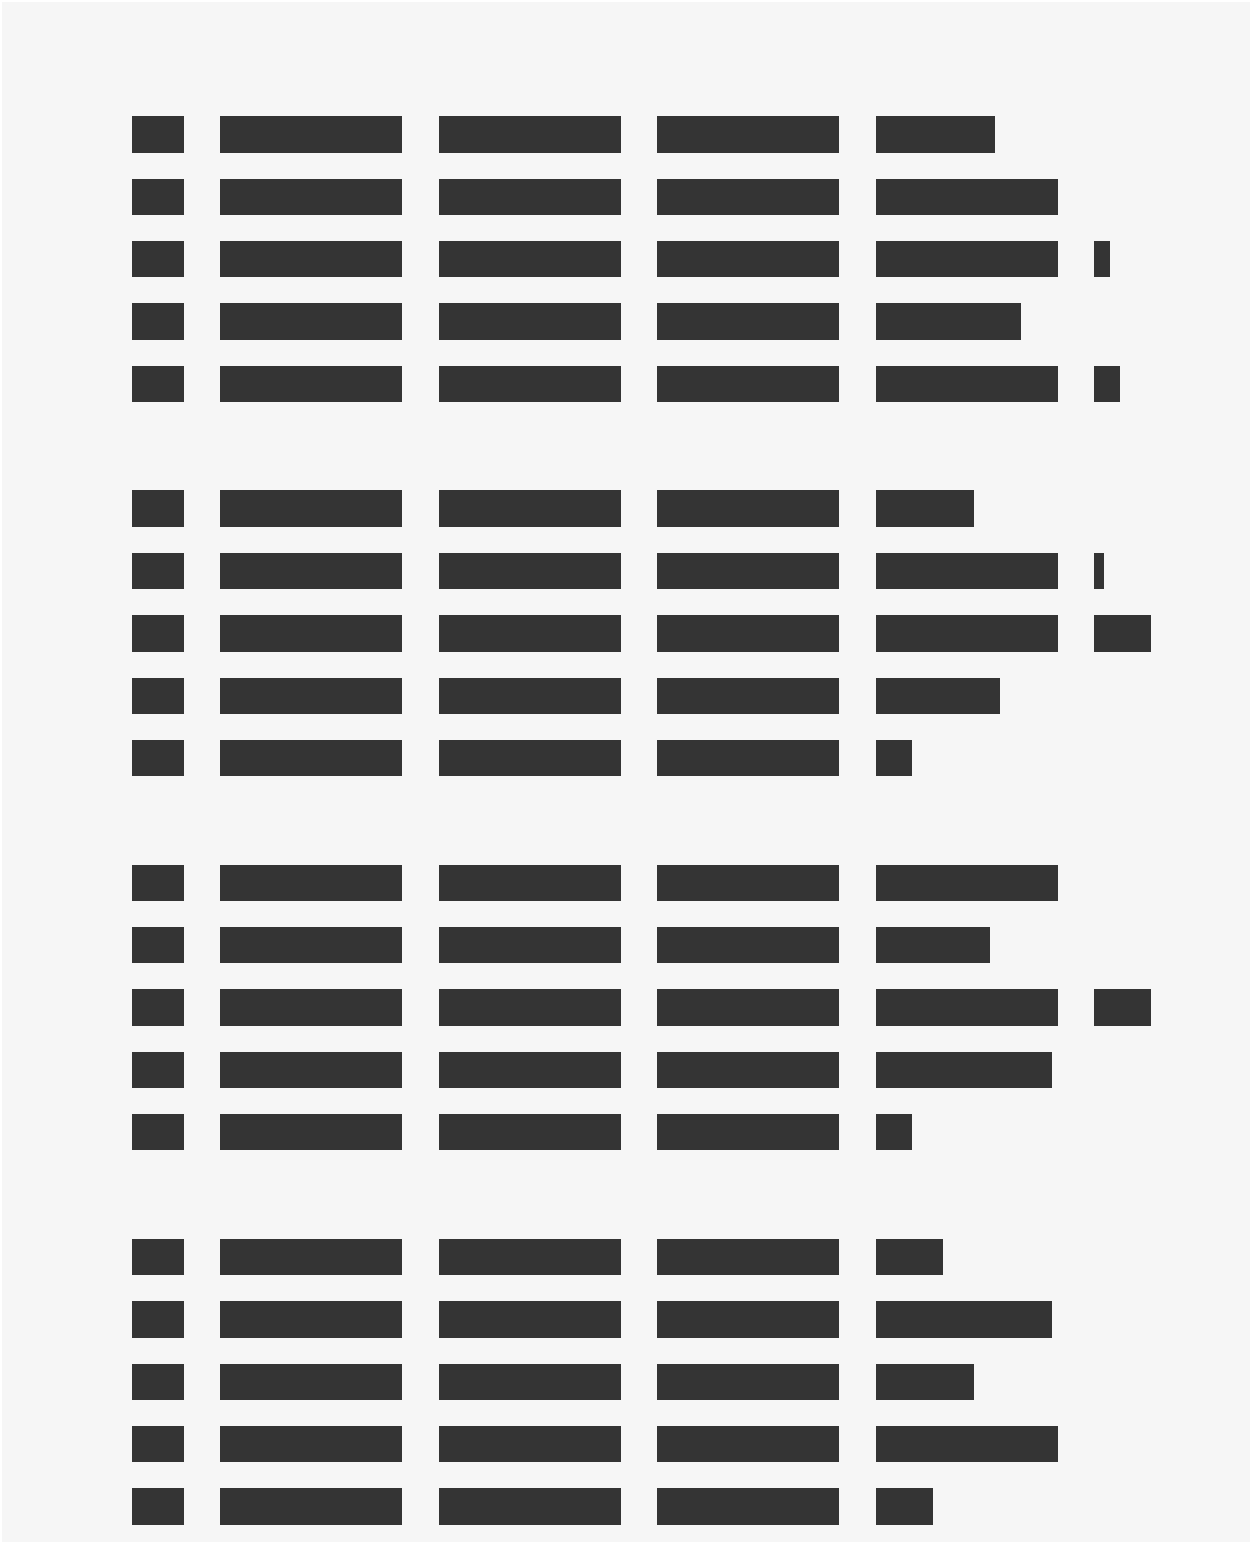
Mixed document, page one. This page has a real text layer, so selection, search and capture work here. The next page is a scanned image with no text behind it.



Mixed document, page three. Text features return on this page because it carries selectable text. The lantern by the gate was lit at dusk and left burning until the last cart came home.